CELEBRATION SET FOR 200TH ANNIVERSARY

February 22, 1932, Named By President Coolidge For World Celebration

ALL NATIONS ARE INVITED

Details of International Participation are Yet to Be Arranged

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Nations of the world will be invited to join the United States in celebrating on February 22, 1932, the bicentennial of the birth of George Washington, President Coolidge announced today.

As head of the American commission for the celebration, the President issued the following statement
from the White House:

"The 200th anniversary of General
Washington's birth will be an occasion of much significance, not only to our own country, but to the entire world, that it is manifestly fitting that the American nation should appropriately observe it. But beyond this it is felt that as the life, career and the achievements of Washington belong not to a single nation, but to all humanity, it is proper that nation founded under his leadership should invite all other nations and people to join it in observance of this anniversary.

IMPRESSION ON WORLD

"The character, the efforts, and the achievements of Washington have made an impression upon the entire world, so profound as to have affected the very course of history and to have touched the lives of all who today live in this world. We cannot doubt the influence of Washington's example, the leadership which he gave in behalf of liberal institutions and mankind's achievement have been among the great benefactions conferred upon the race.

"He ranks and will always rank among the foremost of those who were providentially designed to perform great and lasting services.

UNIVERSAL RECOGNITION

"Every consideration of national pride in him as an American, of gratitude for the distinctions which he brought to us as a people and of satisfaction in the universal recognition which has been freely rendered to his name and memory, dictate that this nation should take the lead in such a proper acknowledgment as will make the approaching bicentennial an occasion of universal inspiration. It was the fortune of America to give such a character to the world,
so it is the obligation of America to insure that all men shall be invited and encouraged to consider his noble example, and to benefit increasingly through a better understanding of the ideals which animated his life."

Details of the international participation, the President said, are yet to be arranged.

Motorists Who Crowd Fires To Be Arrested; Action Lauded

People in automobiles who crowd
in and interfere with the operation of the Richmond fire department apparatus, are violating city ordinance No. 31, and will hereafter be prosecuted, it was announced last night by Assistant Fire Chief Barry.
There has been too much of this going on recently, so that the fire department finds it difficult to get to the scene of fire alarms. Fire Chief Cooper has announced that crowds are not wanted at fires, and that autos violate the law by even following a false alarm which was given.

This announcement came last night,
following an alarm which was turned in from Box 124 at Solano and Lassen streets at 8:20. Engines 3 and 4, Truck 1 and Chemical 1, responded to the call, but found no fire in the neighborhood.

High praise was paid by the department to J. A. Miller, manager of the Mira Vista service station,
A. Mitchell, Wilson avenue resident, and another man whose name was not learned, for their action in flagging and stopping the traffic on San Pablo avenue until the fire department could get by.

"The action of these men showed the right spirit and cannot be too highly commended," said Assistant Barry.

Three Cars Crash
In Collision Here

A collision occurred at corner of San Pablo and Esmond avenues yesterday at about 2 p. m. in which cars driven by A. Zampa, 1821 Elm street, Alameda, Arthur Gorgenson, 115 Carmel street, San Francisco, and S. F. Spencer, 914 Thompson street, Martinez were severely damaged but no injuries were sustained by the occupants.

Zampa endeavored to avoid an accident with Gorgenson but was unsuccessful and when the two cars came together they were thrown over onto the one driven by Spencer.
The first two were badly smashed up but little damage was done to the other. It was decided that no one was to blame for the occurrence.

Clarence Garibotti
Charged in Wright
Act Violation Here

Alleged to have been caught in the act of delivering four gallons of wine, Clarence Garibotti, 228 Twenty-first street, was arrested Friday night and charged with the violation of the Wright Act. Police say that Gar-ibotti has been under suspicion for some time as a rum runner.

The arrest occurred near Eighteenth and Macdonald avenue. On his appearance before Police Judge C. A.
O'Neil yesterday morning he asked the court to grant him time until Wednesday in which to enter a plea.

Elk Trapshooters
To Visit Martinez

The first trap shoot of the season
will be attended by the Richmond Elk trapshooters, at the shoot to be given by the Martinez Gun club today. Prizes will be given for the various events. It is expected that trap shooting teams from about the bay district and from Contra Costa county, will take part in the event.
Those from Richmond who will attend are A. A. Paulsen, Lou Schroeder, Jack Becker, A. Jinochio, T. D.
Morgan and Martin Joost.

GEORGE WA SHINGTON

FOUNDER OF THE GREATEST COUNTRY IN THE WORLD

STORY OF WASHINGTON'S BURIAL PUBLISHED OVER 125 YEARS AGO

In the Ulster County Gazette, published in the state of New York on January 4, 1800, more than 125 years ago, appears an account of the burial of George Washington, the first president of the United States of America.

A copy of the paper of the above date, more than a century and a quarter old, was shown to the Record-Herald yesterday, by John C. Kassner, of Oakland, to whom it came as a family heirloom.

The article is of more than passing interest and as today is Washington's birthday, it is very appropriate for republication at this date.
It is prophetic in its vision of the future.

Appearing under a small one line
head, reading, "Washington Entombed," the article is reproduced just as it was published 125 years ago, as follows:

George Town; Dec. 20 1799.

On Wednesday last the mortal part of WASHINGTON, the Great
Father of his Country and the Friend
of man, was consigned to the tomb,
with solemn honors and funeral pomp from many miles around, at Mt. Vernon, the choice abode and last residence of the illustrious chief. There were the groves—the spacious avenues, the beautiful and sublime
scenery, the noble mansion but alas,
the august inhabitant was no more.
That great soul was gone. His mortal part was there indeed; but ah,
how affecting, how awful the spectacle of such worth and greatness,
thus to mortal eyes, fallen—Yes, fallen,
fallen.

In the long and lofty Portico,
where oft the Hero walked in all his glory, now lay the shrouded corpse.
The countenance, full composed and serene, seemed to depress the dignity of the spirit, which lately dwelt in the lifeless form. There those who paid the last sad honors to the benefactor of his country, took an impressive—a farewell view.

Speaker Engaged For Women's Club Has Reputation As An Ardent Worker

Mrs. Genevieve Allen, who will give the chief address at the dinner
of the Richmond Business and Pro-

Rescue Crews Stagger Through
Black Damp in Indiana Mine
Wrecked by Blast

294 FEET BELOW THE SURFACE

Unseen Dangers Lurk in Dark, Imperilling Those Who Seek
Explosion Victims

(By Universal Service)

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 21.—Twenty-eight bodies tonight had been recovered from the City Coal Mine, wrecked by an explosion yesterday.
Twenty-three other miners are still unaccounted for. It is believed they are all dead.

Rescue crews staggered through black damp to recover the victims.
As the work went forward and the deadly black damp was encountered in greater volume in the far reaches of the mine, hope of any of the vic-
time being taken out alive vanished.

There are dangers other than black damp lurking in those dark, explosion wrecked corridors 294 feet below the surface.

WALLS, CEILING FALLING

Walls are crumbling, ceilings falling, and pockets of gas are forming.
So great are the dangers that the officials in charge of the rescue work appealed to the crowd of men standing around the gaping mouth of the shaft, there are few women in the crowd today, to go below.

Volunteers stepped forward, donned gas masks and stepped onto
the cages, willing to give their lives,
if necessary, to wrest the bodies of their dead comrades.

It is all done very quietly and efficiently for each person at the mine-shaft. Each family in this little town bears its burden of sorrow—a father dead, a brother, and uncle
or a friend.

FIRST BODY IDENTIFIED

The first body brought out this morning, terribly mangled, has been tentatively identified as that of Harry Anderson, mine foreman.

The story of his death, and his only, can be told, for it comes from the lips of the only survivor in the explosion torn part of the mine, Elmer Davidson, who now calls himself "double death proof."

Just a few minutes before the first explosion Davidson, a coupler, was standing by a string of empties,
Anderson, mine foreman, passed him.
"I'm on the way to make a test for gas in sub-entries three and four off the main northeast entry,"
he told me," Davidson quoted Anderson.

"I felt a rush of air, like a cyclone, and heard the crash of the first explosion with the antonation
of the coal dust an instant later," Davidson continued.

"I next recall Clarence Ford lifting something from my chest. I was unconscious for four hours."

How the other fifty-one died can only be surmised from the position of their bodies when the rescue crews finally reached them.

MARCH 2 LAST DAY FOR RENEWING MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS

"Put a prominent check on March 2 on your calendar. That is the last day on which you can apply for your 1925 yellow and black automobile license plates without paying a 100 per cent penalty."

With the motor vehicle registration period entering its final week, this admonition was issued to motorists yesterday by George S. Grant, manager of the touring-bureau of the California State Automobile Association which is handling renewal registrations for its members.

Any motorist who fails to have his application for 1925 license plates in the hands of the Division of Motor Vehicles or the Automobile Association by Monday, March 2, will have to pay a $6 license fee instead of the regular $32 fee. Grant said yesterday. The higher weight taxes on commercial vehicles and trucks will likewise be doubled if they become delinquent, according to Grant.

The Divisions of Motor Vehicles faces a colossal task in handling almost one and one-half million registrations in four weeks. Grant said yesterday, and every motorist should co-operate in cutting down the burden of a last minute rush to secure plates. He advised motorists to come to the offices of the Association or the offices of the Division of Motor Vehicles early this week and not to wait until the last day when press of business engagements or other circumstances might force them to become delinquent.

Thousands of motorists have already taken advantage of the personal registration service offered by the Association to its members. Grant said yesterday. They have received their new license plates without waiting in line and without the inconvenience of troublesome correspondence.

The heaviest rush to secure plates was during the first few days, but they have been going out steadily ever since, Grant said. Even at the height of the rush period he said that the Automobile Association had been able to live up to its slogan, "step right up, pay your $3, and step out with the license plates."

The following offices of the California Automobile Association are handling registrations: San Francisco, Chico, Eureka, Fresno, Hanford, Martinez, Marysville, Merced, Modesto, Oakland, Red Bluff, Redding, Salinas, San Jose, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, Santa Rosa, Stockton, Vallejo, Willows, Woodland, Yreka.

GOOD HEALTH! GOOD BUSINESS!

In accordance with the principle that good health and good business go hand in hand, chambers of commerce and commercial organizations throughout the country are giving impetus to the movement for improving sanitary conditions of their communities, as well as conditions of employment. Replies to a questionnaire sent out by the Civic Development Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States disclose a wide range of activities in this field.

Through public health committees efforts are made to bring about the enactment of adequate sanitary codes, to eliminate water pollution, clear waterways of obnoxious and mosquito breeding weeds, remove refuse, and establish school medical inspections and dental school clinics.

Some chambers have periodical meetings where management problems and the health supervision of employees are discussed. Others maintain safety councils. Another has organized a speakers' bureau to reach groups of employees at the noon hour and give them information on questions of sanitation, hygiene, and first aid.

Adequate hospitals, the collection of vital statistics, and the safeguarding of the water and milk supply have been given attention by various chambers. All this is done on the theory that sickness is a community liability.

IT HELPS A LITTLE

The congress now sitting which will end its life on March 4th is not the best congress by any means, neither is it the worst. In justice to the men in house and senate who from the beginning have been endeavoring to do their duty, the general disposition to tar all the men with one great brush is unfair. There are slackers, laggards and obstructionists as in every legislative body, but it must not be forgotten that the delaying tactics which are criticized by many newspapers are part of a deliberate democratic and insurgent plan of campaign. It is not to be denied there are congressmen who during this short session are showing a vastly different attitude than they did before the last election. They had their cars to the ground at that time, and have learned the lesson and are seeking to profit by it. Whatever the motive of their conversion they are entitled to credit for the change.

Therefore before giving way to wholesale attacks it is only fair to credit congress with the development of a disposition to really aid the president.

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

DRESS'S By MARY MARSHALL

And Now the Younger Girls Wear Hats That Show the Eyes and Sometimes Some of the Brow.

If the smartly dressed younger American girls have their way, the next real development in the way of millinery fashions will be hats that show something of the forehead or bang in front. For several years past about the best way for a woman to look hopelessly out of fashion was to wear her hat high up on the crown of her head. Hats, like girdles and belts, were worn low.

The exact angle at which the hat was worn has been a very important matter. Lately hats have been pulled quite low at the back—the shingled head has been responsible. Though we have been wearing hats of all sorts low on the brow at the front, we have worn them considerably lower in the back—so that the line of the crown's brim has not been a level one.

When the new little hats that have already appeared on the heads of some of the younger girls who have affected the bobbed haircut, the line is more that of a bonnet than anything else, for the base of the crown smoothes low across the back and then curves upward at front fitting closely at the sides of the eyes.

These little bonnet-shaped hats are not infinitely unusual to attract or to draw a little attention. "Do you like your hair?" you may whisper when you see some smartly dressed young girl with her hat an inch or so off her forehead at the front. We have all grown so accustomed to the hat that shades the brow and well hides the eyes altogether. Then you observe that the hat is shaped so that when off the brow in front it sits low at the back. It couldn't very well be worn any lower in front. At all of a piece, the young fry who affect these little hats are greatly pleased with them and they truly are quite becoming. The sketch shows one of them made of brown satin ribbon faced with gold.

WISE AND OTHERWISE By MARY MARSHALL

A NEW PLACE FOR A POCKET

POCKETS have been a decorative part of our clothes for several years, no matter how much in the background they are as really useful receptacles for handkerchiefs and peppermint lozenges. One of the newest pockets is that on the coat sleeve, and it serves both a decorative and a useful purpose. A handkerchief, of course, nicely chosen to harmonize with the coat, is neatly tucked in the little pocket, easy to reach and especially easy to look at.

UNDER CUT The debutante's turban of brown satin ribbon faced with gold is cut high at front to show the bang.

CURRIED BRISKET WITH RICE BORDER

Two pounds beef, two cups cut onion, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon curry powder or curry taste, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon chopped celery tops.

Wipe meat with wet cheesecloth; cut into thin slices; sear in hot iron pan (no fat is added, as the meat is fat enough); sear on all sides a nice brown. Then put into boiler, cover with boiling water. In the pan where the meat was seared put the onions and fry a light brown, add to the meat; add the salt and boil slowly three hours, or until the

WHERE IT STARTED

WATCHES

Watches were said to have been invented at Nuremberg in 1577. The term "watch" at first applied to clocks for keeping the "watch" of the night; they were called "watch-clocks," and were made small so as to be easily carried to the bedside. Later "watch" came to mean any unusually small clock.

My Matrimonial Vacation by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Husband Tamer," "One Wife on Approval," etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

NANCY LARRABEE remains in New York with her mother, VIRGINIA, when her husband, JIM LARRABEE, who is an army officer, goes to the Philippines on foreign service. Disillusioned after six months of marriage when she sees another woman in her husband's arms, she plays the social game as her mother dictates, in her relationships with FRANK HARRISON, a wealthy man twice her age, and NICHOLAS WAYNE, whom she really likes.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XVIII—ANOTHER TANGLE

IT WAS quite late when I got home that night. After we finished our visit to Jordan's yacht Nick wanted me to go somewhere and have supper and dance a while with him, so it was well after midnight when at last I reached our apartment. Virginia and Frank Atwood were sitting in the living-room, waiting for me.

VIOLET DARE

"Where have you been?" demanded Virginia. Ordinarily I would have been annoyed at her tone, but she had looked so sad as she sat there when I first came in that I couldn't be cross with her.

"Oh, just out with Nick," I answered, too busy over concealing the other facts to think of camouflaging that one. "But I've asked you not to go with him; I don't approve." Virginia exclaimed, with a glance at Frank. "Really, Nancy—"

"Oh, don't scold her," Atwood interrupted. "We'd hoped you'd come early enough to go out to supper with us at the White Horse Tavern," he went on, to me. "Your mother hasn't been there yet, and I thought she'd enjoy it."

There was something about that remark that sounded almost paternal. He might have been my father. Virginia noticed it too. She glanced up at him sharply, and her face looked less sad.

"Well, let's do it tomorrow night," I urged. "That's just as good a time, isn't it? I'd love to go. Virginia would love the Tavern. How nice of you to think of taking us there!"

I wanted to be sure of her being included in the invitation. If only he could fancy her instead of me! One minute I was arranging other people's love affairs, and then, this time they were mine too!

Virginia went out to our little kitchenette then and got supper, while I set the table and told Frank Atwood how clever she was. As a matter of fact, Virginia loathed cooking, but I knew that he liked good food—and besides, she is a good cook when she wants to be.

He went down to his own apartment finally, delighted with the way the evening had turned out, and I went to my own room, longing to tumble into bed and try to straighten out my thoughts. But Virginia followed me, and insisted on my sitting up while she brushed my hair and saw to it that everything was all right.

I realized that she wanted to know all about where I had been, and to find out if she could just how much I liked Nick.

"I can't see why you persist in going around with that young fellow when every one is sure to talk about you, and think that his wife divorced him just because of you," she said fretfully.

"But I didn't even know him before she got a divorce," I protested. "People won't believe that. If we had more money gossip wouldn't hurt you at all—in fact, it's likely to be rather a good thing for a girl, nowadays, under some circumstances," she went on. "But you simply mustn't be talked about."

"Well, I shan't be," I protested. A letter from Jim, on my dressing-table, and was wishing she'd leave me alone so that I could read it. "Not while I have you and Frank Atwood to look after me," I couldn't resist adding.

Virginia actually blushed.

"Mr. Atwood is very much interested in you," she said.

"Not half so much as he is interested in you," I answered. "Really, Virginia, I never knew you to be so blind before. You're the one who's the attraction to him—I'm not in it at all."

"Men of his age always like younger women," she protested. "But you're barely forty, and look younger," I answered. "Face the music, Virginia. You can't tell me that that man sat here all evening just because he thought I'd be home later."

She went to her own room very soon after that—I knew she would. A woman always wants to be alone.

Virginia looked very sad.

With the thought of a new love affair when it first comes to her, I curled up in bed with all the lights out but the one on the table beside me, with Jim's letter in my hand. All the night noise of the city came to me—the hooting of tugs on the river, the rumble of trucks in the street, the hammering, and chopping made by the men who were shovelling snow, and breaking up the ice that covered the sidewalks. It had been raining all day, following a hard snowstorm of the day before, and an army of men would work all night, making the city streets passable.

I thought of all that—and of how far away my husband was, in a land of sunshine. What was he really doing there? Would his letter tell me?

It did—at least partly. "Living conditions here aren't at all what they might be," he wrote. "But I'm in luck. The Katons have drawn a very decent house, and Claire urges that I live with them. Says it's as easy to look after two men as one, and will keep her from getting lazy. So I've taken over two of their rooms, and really feel that I have a home again."

I could see Claire Eaton, purring like a contented kitten, as she supervised the making of that arrangement. How long would it be before Jim wrote, wanting to break completely with me, I asked myself.

A QUESTION A DAY

What is the best way to grate cheese?

Have the cheese partly dry and grate on a coarse grater, preferably a special cheese grater which has slits instead of round holes. Very dry cheese can be grated easily on any sort of grater. But the softer cheese is much more easily grated on this slit grater.

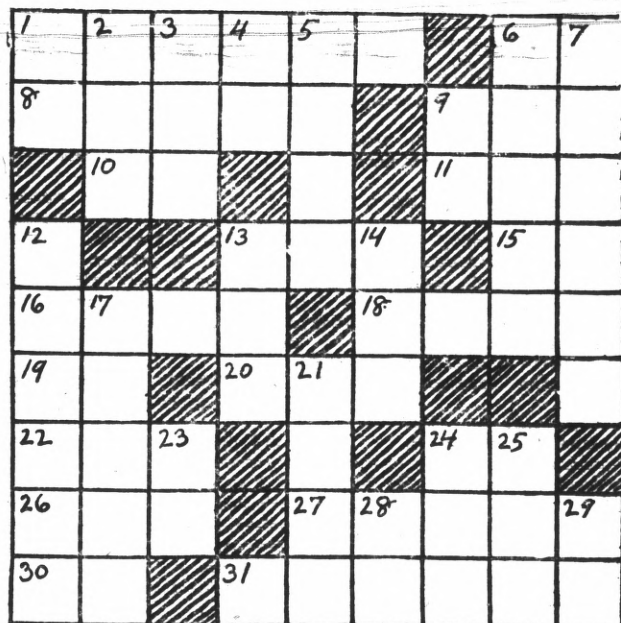

Daily Cross Word Puzzle

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across the white space remaining uninterrupted.

to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white space remains uninterrupted.

Testifies Twice Before Two Juries in Oakland Police Court No. 2,
March 12, 1918 and May 8, 1919

That the Fong Wan Herb Specialist had permanently relieved Nervous Attacks, Stomach Trouble, Kidney Complaints, Chronic Cough, Dropsy, and Consumption. Never before in the history of the local courts have there been such arrays of so many witnesses for any Herb Specialist or treatment of whatever nature. Among the witnesses were the jewelry store proprietor, Mr. R. L. Lewis; Mr. John Souza, Mrs. McQuid, Mr. Giacomo Viachetto, Mr. Wm. A. McMooy and Mr. D. Gasbury. Addresses at the office of the Fong Wan Herb Co.

These are the Fong Wan Company's good friends and former patrons, whose testimonials in the court proved Fong Wan's results that have been bringing the wonderful business to the Fong Wan Herb Company ever since. Now the Fong Wan Herb Company is in a position to produce even stronger testimonials than those submitted at former trials.

Physicians Say. "I Can't Understand"

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

STOCKTON, CALIF., June 30, 1924.

Last January I was told by four American doctors that I had hardened arteries and Bright's Disease of the Kidney—and that both were incurable. They could not help me.

Some friends of mine persuaded me to try the FONG WAN HERB CO. I had no hope of obtaining relief from them—thinking that if American Science could not help me I was doomed. However, I called upon FONG WAN, who, just by looking at my face told me right out that I had high blood pressure and weak kidneys and that he could cure me easily in five weeks.

I began treatment with him, and after the first two weeks the same American doctors who had pronounced my case incurable could find nothing at all wrong with me. They said that I was entirely well. They could only shake their heads and say "IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO PUT A NEW HEART, ARTERIES OR KIDNEYS INTO A MAN. I CAN'T UNDERSTAND." Nevertheless, this is what FONG WAN did for me and I have never felt better in my life than I do now.

It is six months since I took treatment and I am as well as I ever was in my life. FONG WAN brought about my cure in five weeks. I cannot too highly recommend the FONG WAN HERB CO. to all who are in need of treatments.

Vaudeville Act, "Twenty Minutes in Hollywood," Heads California Theatre's Big Program for Today

"Always something new" is the slogan of the management of the popular California Theatre and general Dan Reardon, officer in charge, promises another wonderful bill for today, with F. Haven MacQuarrie and Company heading the big five act road show vaudeville bill, and "Bread," featuring Mae Busch, Wanda Hawley and Robert Frazer as the screen feature.

A unique vaudeville attraction entitled "Twenty Minutes in Hollywood," is offered by F. Haven MacQuarrie and a capable company of assistants. How stunts are performed in the studios and as an insight for movie aspirants this act will have universal interest. Mr. MacQuarrie has arranged his presentation with a view to general entertainment value and there is much to please and to laugh at in their little skit. Members of the audience are invited to the stage for some minor characterizations and all in all a good time will be had by everyone.

The Musical Tays have many novel musical effects. In particular may be mentioned the bell ringing d key, a quadrone who has a taste for music. Both artists are original in their interpretations and there is much to please whilst they occupy the stage.

"Singing Sense and Nonsense" is indulged in by the Hall Logan Trio.

Begin to inhale through the nostrils at a reasonable speed, and at the same time move the arms out sideways, and circle them upwards till the hands touch at fullest stretch above the head, as in illustration. As the hands touch, the lungs should be filled to their utmost. Release hands, bring the arms down sideways, exhale vigorously and repeat movement.

The Literary Spotlight

By MARION ELLET

VERY Old Amber," a story by Mildred Cram, which appears in the February issue of Harper's Bazar is the story of the eternal triangle.

Bardy Folsom is a New York gentleman so deeply in love with his wife that he arranges for her marriage to the other man.

It was on the night of Greta's confession of love for a struggling young architect that Bardy presented her with the necklace of very old amber. Men who are "the last satisfactory word in highly specialized and incredibly subtle elegance"—are not supposed to know how to love, but Bardy was the exception. There was about his love a certain quality of fineness and mellowness like the old amber of the necklace. It was the sort of thing that enabled him to quietly wait while Greta had her fling.

The story of that adventure and of Greta's discovery of her latent fondness for very old amber unfolds a pathetic human comedy.

Mystery and Thrills in Latest Mary Roberts Rinehart Novel

IN the March issue of Hearst's International and Cosmopolitan, Mary Roberts Rinehart returns to mystery and thrills in the novel, "The Red Lamp."

Mrs. Rinehart knows how to write a mystery story. She has mastered the art of telling a coolly analytical, swiftly moving, narrative. She knows how to motivate her plot and how to build up and sustain the moment of breathless suspense. With this she has combined her knowledge of the human heart, and has produced a novel that is out of the ordinary.

"All houses," says Mrs. Rinehart, "where people have lived and suffered and died are haunted," but about Twin Hollows there hovered a mystery more sinister than the age-old mystery of human life and death. Twin Hollows fell, by inheritance, to the lot of one William Porter, Ph.D., a professor of literature and a skeptic. His wife, Jane, was a Scotch woman whose heritage was the gift of second sight. It was Jane who looked into the real heart of the old mansion and feared it. The story of a summer passed in the lodge house of the Twin Hollows estate is a thrilling one.

Love and Unexpected Tragedy; Two Go Their Separate Ways

THE March issue of Smart Set contains a story of those people who, above all others, are apt to be the most glorious gypsies in the whole world—the people of the stage. Pitching their tents today and pulling up stakes tomorrow, acting out their little comedy and going on they learn, perforce, that all things pass.

"Why Do I Play Character Parts?" is the story of a romantic episode in the life of one of these play-acting nomads. It deals with the private life of a noted character actress and is the revelation of her reason for confining herself to character parts.

A young actor and actress once wandered over the United States together, playing in the same road company. Together they fought through the Grub Street days winning their way to fame and fortune, going hungry sometimes; and together outwitting the managers. Then came love and an unexpected tragedy in a little manufacturing town. For a fleeting moment the dingy houses of that town and the ugly smokestacks had been glorified and then came the catastrophe that sent the two gypsies on their separate ways, casting a shadow over the life of one of them.

WILL BUILD BUNGALOW

Construction of a five-room bungalow will be begun soon by F. L. Lea, of 1925 Barrett avenue. The property on which the building will be constructed are two lots on Thirty-fifth street, near Nevin avenue. Lea purchased the property from the A. L. Paulsen Realty Service.

Local Firm Gets Large Block Order

Concrete, thermite rock blocks useful for all kinds of building purposes, according to Capt. H. P. Lauritzen, are being manufactured in large quantities of the Richmond Navigation and Improvement Company. A $2800 block machine recently purchased by the company marks the first time that the blocks are manufactured by the local firm, which is also offering a new kind of tile for sidewalks. Lauritzen says the company has orders for 200,000 concrete blocks which keep dry in winter and cool in the summer.

GARAGE BUILDING SOLD

Deeds were filed in Martinez, yesterday transferring the one story garage building occupied by Frank Scholes, Nash and Overland dealer, from Milton H. Shutes to E. H. Keifer. The deal was transacted for a consideration of $15,000.

STANDARD OIL CO. EXPLAINS PRICE RAISES

In answer to the charge made by Senator Breed that the Standard Oil company advanced the price of gasoline two cents per gallon to "head off" the proposed gasoline tax increase pending in the California Legislature, the Standard Oil company issued the following statement:

"Nothing could be further from the facts. The reason for the increase are simple and fall within the fundamental laws of economics.

"Gasoline and crude oil as related to their markets differ in no essential respect from other commodities. Any commodity will naturally seek its highest market. Due to recent material increases in the price of both crude oil and gasoline in the United States, east of the Rocky Mountains, these products can move from California to those markets to advantage. In New York today the retail price of gasoline (without tax) is 23 1-2 cents per gallon, and New York is the largest gasoline market in the world. In Los Angeles the retail price of gasoline (without tax) is today 16 1-2 cents per gallon, and Los Angeles is the largest shipping point for gasoline on the Pacific Coast. Gasoline can be readily moved from Los Angeles to New York at a cost of less than 8 1-2 cents per gallon. It is clear to anyone familiar with elementary commerce that a disparity of 5 cents per gallon in the value of this product at one point as compared with another, will result in the flow of the product from the lower to the higher market. This establishes an inevitable price relationship.

"It is estimated that California consumes less than 50 per cent of the gasoline it produces; hence the manufacturers here are compelled to seek other markets for a large proportion of their product. It is apparent, therefore, that California cannot regulate the price of gasoline for the United States. On the other hand, the United States at large is not interested in the California gasoline tax situation.

"The increased prices which this company also announced it would pay for crude oil were prompted by the same economic conditions as are pointed out above. In his statement Senator Breed ignores the ad-

Advanced cost of the raw material, of which the company is the largest purchaser in the State of California. "It is difficult to understand how Senator Breed can interpret the free operation of trade and commerce as reflecting itself in price structure, as an attack on any proposed legislation in this State, or as an insult to any member of the State Legislature."

AROUND THE HARBOR

Inadequate facilities forced Harbor Master J. H. Misner to turn two vessels away from the Municipal wharf yesterday. One was the steamer West Sequana of the American Far East line, that desired to load here with oils for the Orient. The other was the Willamette. The ships were sent to the ferry point as the accommodations at the wharf will only give room for one ship.

Following is the list of vessels that will arrive at this port in the near future as given out by Misner:

February 25—Steamer West Isip, Pacific Australian line, loading oils for Australian and New Zealand ports.

March 5—Steamer West Jester, American Far East line, loading oils for Australia and New Zealand ports.

March 12—Steamer Indianie, General Steamship company, will stop to this port to finish loading oils for Australian and New Zealand ports.

March 13—Motor ship Hauraki, Union Steamship company, loading oils for Australian and New Zealand ports.

GOLD BRICKS

Whether in the form of handsomely engraved stock certificates or gilded bars, "gold bricks" continue to enjoy a rich and eager market.

Last year more than 850,000,000 hard-earned silver dollars were exchanged for shares in goldless gold mines, money-making machines and honest but ill-advised business ventures.

A repetition of this loss is unnecessary. A careful investigation of these so-called "securities" will usually reveal their true worth.

Citizens. When the procession had arrived at the bottom of the elevated lawn, on the bank of the Potomac, were the family vault is placed, the cavalry halted, the infantry marched towards the Mount and formed their lines—the Clergy, the Masonic Brothers, and the Citizens, descended to the vault, and the funeral service of the Church was performed. The firing was repeated from the vessel in the river, and the sounds echoed from the woods and hills around.

Three general discharges by the infantry—the cavalry, and 11 pieces of artillery, which lined the banks of the Potomac, back of the vault, paid the last tribute to the entombed Commander in Chief of the Armies of the United States, and to the departed Hero.

The sun was now setting. Alas, the "Son of Glory" was set forever. No—the name of WASHINGTON—the American President and General—will triumph over DEATH. The unclouded brightness of his Glory will illuminate the future ages.
